General enjoyment of the outdoors and the waterfront rose to the top as the priority for Palmer Cove Park- whether its a spot to relax, bike, stroll or garden, people value this park as respite.

Other popular uses for the park were events and active recreation like basetball and baseball.

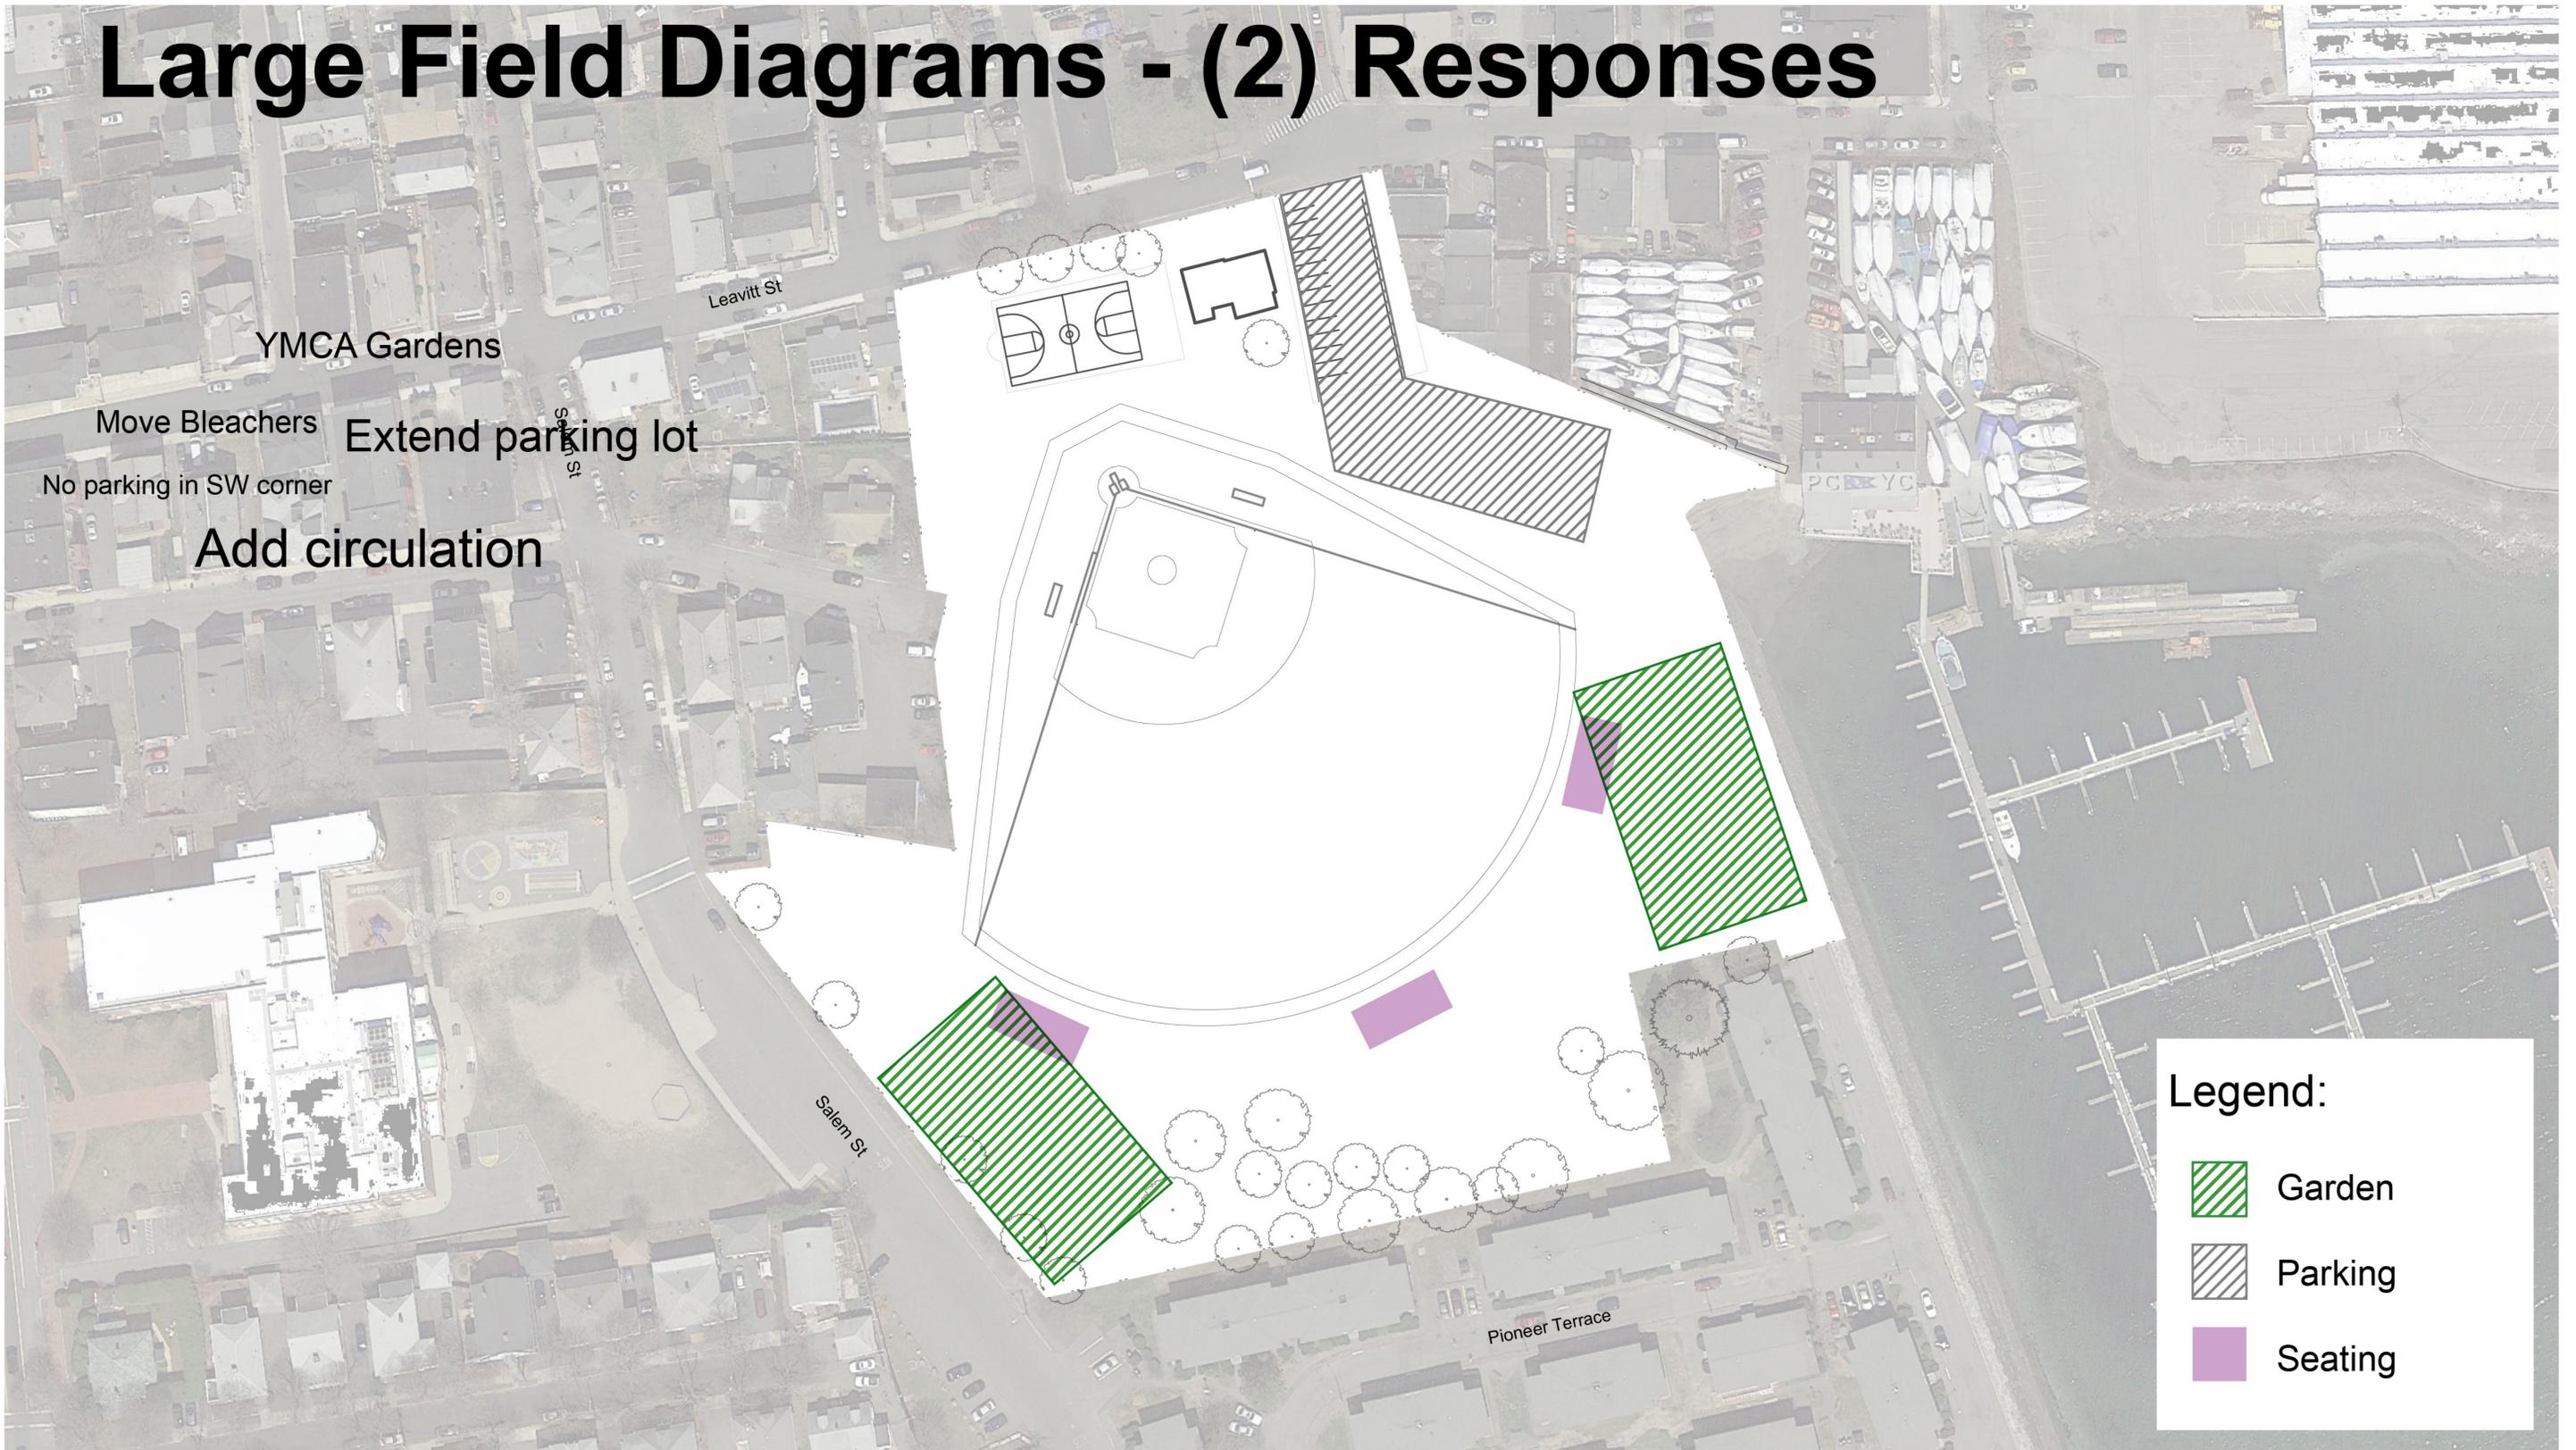

When we look at how people said they would allocate money for the park, we see that the same items rise to the top if we look at the number of people who wanted to spend money on an improvement, and if we look at the total number of dollars people wanted to put towards each item.
